Dear Parents/Carers

I am writing to you at the end of this term to share with you the many successes of our students, your children. You will have received a copy of our most up to date Newsletter which highlights some of the successes and achievements of this term. I am sure after reading the newsletter you will feel proud of all that your daughter has achieved.

I hope that during the Christmas break you get the opportunity to catch up with your daughter and spend some quality time discussing her progress and her learning. You will have received a report recently highlighting how well your daughter is doing and I will be writing to you again in the new year with some helpful hints and tips on how you can continue to support your daughter with her learning.

I am conscious of the fact that many of our students will receive Christmas presents that they may wish to showcase upon their return. If I can remind all parents and carers to check that your daughters do not bring jewellery into school even if it is just to show their friends. I know also that sometimes students get lovely presents like new IPods or mobile phones and, again as a reminder, that the school is not insured against the loss or theft of such items and our rule regarding these items is that they must be switched off as soon as the students arrive on site and only turned on again when they leave at the end of the school day. I would hate to spoil the first few days back by having to confiscate such valuable items from the students.

On a more positive note can I take this opportunity to thank you and to compliment you on the way that you present your daughters for school each day. I regularly receive comments from the general public about how well behaved, well mannered and beautifully dressed the girls are. All these things are important as we work together to educate our students into confident young women who will go out and make a significant contribution to our community.

Can I take this opportunity to wish you a very peaceful and happy Christmas and a new year that is filled with hope and opportunities.

With kindest regards.

Yours faithfully
